

Primary Source Analysis I

1. Email address *

2. What is your primary source? Give the title or describe it.

3. Where is the original artifact? (name of institution, city, state / country or "not provided")

4. In which of the following is the copy or facsimile you are using?

Mark only one oval.

- free online repository
- fee-based online repository (database, usually via library)
- print facsimile (usually a book or set of books)
- published text (book but non-facsimile)
- Does not apply - I'm using the original
- Other: _____

5. How is the primary source categorized by its providers?

6. Are any keywords or subject tags applied to the primary source? If so, enter them here.

7. What information do you think can't be conveyed by the facsimile? What additional information might be available by examining the original artifact?

8. Use the library catalog to locate a book that looks likely to help you in the analysis of your primary source. Cite it here:

9. Use the library database America: History and Life to locate an article that looks likely to help you in the analysis of your primary source. Cite it here:

A copy of your responses will be emailed to the address you provided

Powered by

